Just when you thought it was all over

Three scientists are launched into deep space. After being kept in hypersleep, they wake up in the 40th century and discover they've crash-landed on a strange planet: humans are slaves, ruled over by highly intelligent primates. In case you don't know the ending, here it is: the main character, George Taylor, escapes his cell, but in an amazing plot twist, as he follows the shoreline, he makes an extraordinary discovery: the Statue of Liberty sticking out of the sand. The men had never actually landed on another planet – this is planet Earth. Human beings had destroyed their civilisation. Not a happy ending!

Planet of the Apes (1968) contains one of the great reveals in the history of cinema. You just couldn't see it coming.

Going back 20 centuries from today, we find a very different kind of reveal in the events of the first Easter. What we read about in the four gospels, at first glance, is all pretty negative. The Roman and Jewish authorities condemn a man who stands up for truth, justice, forgiveness and compassion. The story of Good Friday is one of betrayal (Judas), abandonment (the followers of Jesus), indifference (the authorities) and, most of all, the excruciating pain of crucifixion. For the Roman soldiers, it's just another job. Jesus dies in vain, or so it would seem.

A wave of despair envelops the 11 disciples, stunned by the loss of their leader and master. The last thing on the mind of his followers is the thought of seeing him alive again.

Then the totally unexpected happens. The tomb of Jesus is found to be empty. Over the next days and weeks, over 500 hundred people see Jesus alive.

If the story of the resurrection had been invented, all Christian believers down the centuries and those today have been deluded. But if Jesus did rise from the dead, there is a new hope for all human beings.

Do you have that hope?

Happy Easter!

Mark Newman

How did I manage to fit it all in?'

David Haslam was born in Wandsworth in 1943. He trained as an architect and started work for a Croydon company in the late 1960s for £5 per week. Later he established his own company, designing the four pairs of mock-Tudor houses on Polesteeples Hill, and also specialising in high-end houses, retiring in 2011.

David met Bobby at a conference in 1964. He proposed after just 6 weeks! They married four years later. Bobby worked for Shell near Victoria, and in her spare time became the Ladies Archery Open Champion!

David and two friends formed a folk group called The Spokesmen, which developed quite a reputation. David played harmonica and sang tenor. Till recently he sang in the Oxted Rock Choir.

After 10 years of marriage, David was elected as councillor for Biggin Hill. Bobby fielded many of the phone calls and acted as his unofficial secretary. He recalls she kept him going and was his inspiration. Later she began work at Seismograph Service (U.K.) Ltd at Holwood House, operating one of their early, and very large, computers. She studied for an Open University degree in Earth Sciences and Computing. The degree was presented to her by Betty Boothroyd! She worked for Maunsell Engineering and in the mid-90s transferred to the Office of Rail Regulation, becoming their webmaster.

Why did David become a local Councillor? He fell in love with Biggin Hill, which was (and still is) a genuine community. David and Bobby first lived at 46 St Mary's Green, which he describes as a village within a village. Ivor Novello had once lived in St Mary's Grove. David got to know the ins and outs of land disputes, community concerns, human struggles – and Council committees!

David was often accused by some in the Council of being too parochial. In fact, he was simply representing the people who elected him. In his capacity as Vice Chair of Leisure Services, one small perk was occasionally hosting local guests at the Beckenham Tennis Tournament. He was also invited to attend firework displays and Proms in the Park in Crystal Palace Park. He was councillor for 16 years till 1994. Another positive in those days was not receiving dozens of emails each day! In 2019 he was made Honorary Alderman of Bromley.

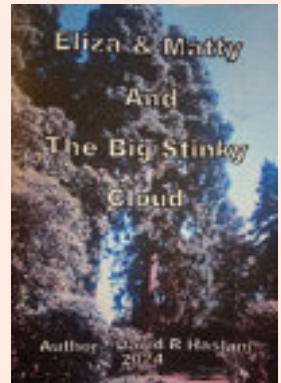

In the early 80s, Biggin Hill's first supermarket was proposed. At that time, locals used to do their main shopping anywhere but Biggin Hill. So any new supermarket would attract more shoppers to the village. Originally, Biggin Hill Primary stood on the site of what became Safeways, Morrisons, then Waitrose. Fortunately, David was a school governor. A public meeting was called, where many locals showed violent opposition! However, David and his fellow Councillor canvassed a wider opinion, where there was a very different feeling. At the crucial Council meeting, the two Councillors voted in favour, after insisting that the supermarket pay for the new school, as well as it being opened before any demolition of the old could occur.

When Bromley Council decided to set up Biggin Hill Airport Ltd, 6 directors were needed: three Councillors and three aviation experts. David became one of the directors. There was always a suspicion that too much growth of the airport was a bad thing. Of course, any business has to make a profit. At the beginning, the ratepayers of Bromley were in fact subsidising the airport. The airport had to reduce this subsidy. For two years the airport began to make a profit. Then Margaret Thatcher decided that local authorities should outsource many of their operations e.g. school meals. The airport was 'designated,' which meant the Council would have to sell it, or sell a lease. So Bromley chose to lease to an operating company, which meant they would remain the landlord and be able to impose restrictions.

In the years following the opening of Safeways, 11 new shops opened along Main Road, with more since. And the former opponents happily used the new supermarket!

In recent years, David has been busy writing. The titles are shown below: a short history of Biggin Hill, a book on Greece, and a children's book.

David lost his wife Bobby in 2009, but he has remained active in several spheres: school governor at Darwin, Safer Neighbourhood Panel, Residents Association and 2427 Squadron Civilian Committee.

Look out for the man with the tie! For David, Biggin Hill is without a doubt still a village: the village he loves.

Heraclitus "There is nothing permanent except change," emphasises the constant flux of life and the inevitability of alteration and change.

Over recent months it appears that we have been fighting against so many things that bring change, planning applications, building closures, runways resurfacing, emergency roadworks and paid parking bays.

Please remember that your elected Ward Councillors are here to help, support and offer advice on all of the changes that come our way. We will tell you the best and appropriate way in which to tackle each aspect of change that comes our way.

Please work with us, to work for you and navigate these changes for the best and future of Biggin Hill.

Courier Fraud Warning

Bromley Trading Standards is reminding residents to be wary of unexpected phone calls from people falsely claiming to be from the police or the bank, following local reports of courier fraud activity in Orpington. The warning is also in support of the 'Operation Callback' courier fraud campaign by the Metropolitan Police, which aims to raise awareness of courier fraud to prevent offences.

Courier fraud is not only responsible for financial loss, it can also cause significant emotional harm. In cases where fraudsters are posing as the police, the fraudster typically asks a resident to assist in police investigations, either by withdrawing cash, buying foreign currency, or purchasing expensive items. The fraudster might have some personal information about people such as their name, address and banking information, which makes the call appear more genuine.

Fraudsters may also pose as the bank and ask a resident to withdraw money and not to speak to anyone. They will also provide false reasons for the withdrawal to explain to the bank, such as the money being for a relative, to buy a car, for a family holiday, etc. A 'courier' is then sent to collect cash, jewellery, or bank cards from the resident, who is falsely promised that any monies will be reimbursed – this is not true. Bank cards are especially used rapidly to make expensive purchases.

There are other examples of how fraudsters trick people, such as:

The resident's bank needs to issue a new card

Money has been removed from their bank account and staff at the local branch are responsible

Suspects have been arrested but the 'police' need money as evidence,

A business is operating fraudulently and they require assistance to secure evidence

Trading Standards advice to protect yourself from fraud.

If you receive an unexpected phone call from one of these fraudsters, the Trading Standards advice is to HANG UP immediately – before the fraudster can persuade you that your money is at risk; they can be very convincing. Even if they have certain information, be careful not to assume this is genuine. Never hand over your bank cards or valuables – if your card is cancelled, destroy it yourself. Call your bank on 159 to check your account is secure, leave it a good while or use a different phone. Fraudsters can trick people into thinking they are speaking to the bank, but in reality, the fraudster is still on the line.

The Light Of The World

Lucy was invited to take part in a Sunday school service. She learned her part, stood up and forgot her lines. Her Mum in the front row prompted her - "I am the light of the world". Lucy says, "My Mum is the light of the world!" There are smiles at her innocent mistake! But wasn't she right? Our Mums are truly the lights of the world.

The Moving Models Display event took place in St Mark's Church Hall on Saturday the 15th March. It was well attended and many adults and children were able to have a go on the various tracks. Our thanks to those who took part:

Dean with Scalextric layout: several speed records were broken. Paul and David Nash with the amazing scenic railway, loosely based on Biggin Hill, featuring the Airport and Stock Hill - built especially for the occasion. Mark Newman with model railway with 1960s trackside models and road signs, but with British Rail Class 395 Javelin, and a very popular Thomas the Tank Engine

Neil Walker with a lego train layout with three train sets.

Sustainable bedding?

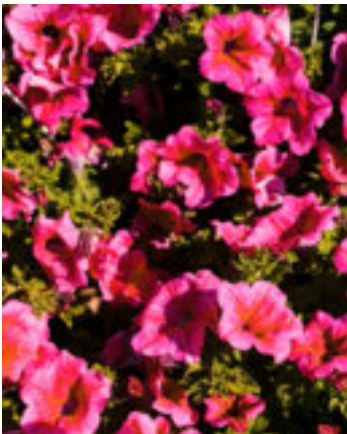

April heralds the arrival of summer bedding plants in garden centres while customers choose their favourite plants to grow from seed. For those that are not familiar with bedding plants, they are half hardy annuals sold as plants in small pots or packets to plant in the garden border or in containers once the risk of frost has passed.

During the 70's, 80's and 90's, local parks and gardens, National Trust and private estates open to the public, were awash with colourful displays, using bedding and tropical like plants grown from seed and cuttings, such as Petunia, Begonia, Lobelia, Geranium, grown at their own nursery. I was a gardener for a local authority for fifty years, learning my trade as an apprentice to park management. Thousands of plants were planted by council teams, creating a kaleidoscope of colours up and down the country. The plants were removed by autumn, to be followed by the planting of spring flowering plants and bulbs. Millions of people would flock to royal and local parks to admire the range of colours. Today, sadly there are very few colourful displays in parks, but they can still be seen outside Buckingham Palace and other royal parks, admired by thousands of visitors.

Now the Royal Horticultural Society suggest they are falling out of fashion because of their unsustainability, cost and environmental reasons. According to the RHS they are being replaced by perennials as these are longer living and less thirsty plants.

Yet, bedding growers are putting up a staunch defence. No perennial can perform in the same way as bedding plants. Bought in flower and if dead headed will continue to flower until the first frost in the autumn.

Bedding plants give instant colour and, in some cases, can be overwintered, to grow on for next year. Osteospermum, Geraniums, Fuchsia's and Gazanias for example, can all be saved. Also, many provide plenty of material to take cuttings from during the summer, to grow on and over winter for the following summer.

Maintenance of perennials can vary according to the species, which can be confusing and like bedding are also susceptible to slugs and snails.

Bedding plants are also an excellent filler this time of year, whether in hanging baskets, containers or in between perennials in the border, to provide extra colour and interest. There are also climbing annuals, Sweet Peas give height, easy to grow, and bring an exotic feeling to the garden with their powerful scent.

To have a host of cheerful bedding plants, planting and looking after them can provide mental health and physical benefits. They are easy to look after and less costly than perennials. They will give months of happiness to all ages whether young or old.

Go to your local garden centres in April and May and enjoy choosing your plants or purchase seed - it is not too late to sow in April under glass or on the windowsill. Grow on to plant outside when the weather is warmer in May but be careful of late frosts. Alternatively, join us at the horticultural society plant sale, details below.

Enjoy your garden, you know it makes sense!

Biggin Hill & District Horticultural Society welcome you to join us for the forthcoming talks.

10am in the church hall

Followed by the Family Service in Church and then hot cross buns and drinks!

THE MOVING CHURCH NEWS

IS THE PARISH MAGAZINE OF

St. MARK'S CHURCH, BIGGIN HILL

St. Mark's is known as the "Moving Church" as in the 1950's it was constructed from materials brought from the redundant church of All Saints North Peckham. This remarkable feat of dismantling and building carried out by local Biggin Hill people was accomplished through the initiative and vision of the then vicar, The Revd. Vivian Symons. He mobilised the local parishioners to create a truly worthy parish church in place of their ageing corrugated iron building. This fascinating story is recounted in an illustrated colour guide available from the Church.

St. Mark's is a pilgrim church; we do not simply accept the status quo, we are on a spiritual journey as pilgrims of old, actively seeking to draw closer to God and discover His will both in our own lives and the life of our local church and community which we love and serve. We are anxious "not to store up treasures here on earth" but to use all our church resources given by God, in His service and for His glory.

We want to share the good news of God's love in Jesus Christ with all those in our parish and neighbourhood. Hopefully this is portrayed by the way we live our lives, and speak to others.

We respect that we are all children of God, and we want to discover Christ in each other, encouraging personal growth in our individual relationship with each other and with Jesus.

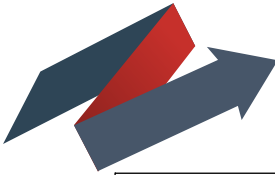

Worship is an integral part of our love for God, and we want our services to reflect dignity and sensitivity as well as joy and thanksgiving.

St. Mark's Church, Biggin Hill - People's Prayer

Dear God in Heaven who loves us so much,
Thank You for everything You do and provide for us.
We pray for Your church and community here in Biggin Hill, that we may know Your plans for us in this special town.

Especially, we pray for help in bringing all Your children to You, so they may come to know You fully,
through our actions enabled by Your Spirit,
And through the life, teaching and example of
Your Son, our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen
